Advertiser Readers Can no Longer Doubt the Evidence.

This grateful citizen testified long ago. Told (if quick relief—of undoubted benefit).

The facts are now confirmed. Such testimony is complete—the evidence conclusive.

It forms convincing proof of merit. Mrs. Frances S. Harlow, Skillings Ave., South Paris, Me., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and have always found them a good remedy for kidney and bladder trouble. They certainly strengthen the kidneys and relieve backache. I was feeling a little bad recently and knew that my kidneys needed a tonic. I got Doan's Kidney Pills and they gave me relief in a short time."

(Statement given July 25, 1908)

A Later Testimony: Mrs. Harlow was interviewed on May 1, 1912, and she said: "I am certainly grateful for what Doan's Kidney Pills have done for me. I confirm my former endorsement of them."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than in any other, and it is the most annoying and the most difficult to cure. For a great many years doctors pronounced it incurable, and by constantly failing to cure it, they have made it incurable. Science has now discovered a cure. It is a simple, natural, and effective cure. It is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is the only cure that does not drop to a reserpent. It acts directly on the root of the disease, and it is the only cure. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

ALBANY.

80th Birthday.

The townspeople of Albany gave Chesley H. Fernald a surprise party on his 80th birthday. A free ball was given in his honor at Albany town hall, the 18th of March. Cecil Kimball and Spring has but to wield her scepter, and Winter's winter disappears. But her exit is so sudden All nature is valued in tears.

Mrs. Daniel Spearling made a birthday cake with ten candles on it to signify a hundredth birthday and Nina Briggs furnished one with the date of the event.

Mr. Fernald led the grand march with his great granddaughter.

He led the march as grand and fine as any young man could be.

And looked as young as in his prime. While dancing with his great granddaughter.

Now when his hundred years advance, May we the event herald.

And all be there to join the dance That honors Chesley Fernald.

Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served at intermission. Mrs. Elmer Henley sang a fine song, Last Night, and James Kimball read the Birthday Greeting, written by Lydia F. Lord for the occasion.

Birthday Greeting. In honor of Chesley H. Fernald's 80th birthday. Dear friend we have met here together To honor thy birthday and wish thee well. Our hearts are warm with delight. We want to celebrate a man of fame With grand and fine ovation; Chesley Fernald is his name.

All the virtues are filled with goodness, All the joys of life are his station. 'Twas eighty years ago today Since first he saw the light, And he is just as young and gay, And he can dance all right.

He can dance the "Rural Philistine," Waltz and polka and swing, Balance his partner in a line, And step out the "Highland Fling."

All the virtues are filled with goodness, All the joys of life are his station. 'Twas eighty years ago today Since first he saw the light, And he is just as young and gay, And he can dance all right.

We shall again renew our youth, As the eternal years unfold; How gladly we shall join the throng That we shall never there grow old.

'Tis the beautiful autumn leaves That make the brown earth brighter; And when the heart with sorrow grieves, Tears, make the sad heart lighter.

May time be many joyful years, Though time is swiftly flying; Thy smile is brighter for thy tears, And earth is better for thy being.

We wish you perfect health and joy, That happiness with you abide, And perfect peace, without alloy, Be with you till you ever die.

Thou hast reached thy eightieth milestone, And thy step is brightly still, But God will not leave thee alone, While climbing life's rough hill.

Again we wish you many a happy year, 'Till be your children and grand children, To fill your days with happy cheer, Until we all shall say, "Good night."

ARE YOU CONSTIPATED? If so get a box of Dr. King's New Life Pills, take them regularly and your trouble will quickly disappear. They will stimulate the liver, improve your digestion and get rid of all the poisons from your system. They will surely get you well again. 25c at The Noyes Drug Store. Adv.

Microbes in Your Scalp

Authorities say that a microbe causes baldness. If you are losing hair try our remedy at our risk.

Professor Unna, of Germany, and
Dr. Sabouraud, the great French Dermatologist, claim that a microbe causes baldness, and their theory has been verified by eminent scientists. This microbe destroys the hair follicles, in time causing the scalp pores to close and the scalp to become shiny. Then, it is believed nothing will revive the growth. If treated before this occurs, baldness may be overcome.

We know of nothing that has given such universal satisfaction in treating the scalp and hair as Rexall
"93" Hair Tonic. It has been designed after long study to overcome the cause of falling hair as discovered by Prof. Unna, Dr. Sabouraud and other scalp and hair specialists, and we believe it will do more than anything else can to remove dandruff and stop falling hair; and if any human agency can promote a new growth of hair it will do that, too.

We want you to make us prove it.
We will pay for a month's treatment of Rexall "93" Hair Tonic used during a trial, if you will use it according to directions, and are not thoroughly satisfied. When we will do this, you surely should not hesitate to at least try it.

Start the treatment today. Your mere request will get your money back if you want it. Two sizes: 50c and $1.00.

You can buy Rexall "93" Hair Tonic
at this company only at our store:

WHAT CAUSES STAGGERS.

Use of Corn Unfit For Horse Feed Brings the Disease.

In a bulletin of the Kansas station, F. P. Haslam gives a brief summary of investigations of the disease of horses variously known as staggers, blind staggers, sleepy staggers and mad staggers. This disease has occurred in outbreaks of greater or less severity in many sections, Kansas, Texas, Louisiana, North Carolina, Delaware and Arkansas having apparently experienced the most trouble.

The first symptoms of the disease are usually a refusal of food and a desire for water, often accompanied by some difficulty in swallowing.

Following this there are dullness and drooping of the ears, partial or complete blindness, loss of consciousness, delirium and death or, in a few cases, recovery. Some cases become violent, running over obstacles, through fences or destroying stalls in a frenzy of excitement. Animals suffering from this form ("mad staggers") are irresponsible and must be approached with caution. If the animal does not die in this stage of the disease it usually becomes quiet or stupid ("sleepy staggers"), leans against the side of the stall or manger or pushes its head against a wall, often standing with the legs braced. Sometimes animals in the stupor stage of the disease are thrown into a frenzy by the least excitement or irritation. Animals suffering from this disease, if they can be induced to move, generally go in a circle, either to the right or left, depending on which side of the brain is most seriously diseased. The disease is not contagious and attacks no animals except horses, mules and asses.

A severe outbreak of the disease in Kansas was investigated with a view of ascertaining the cause of the disease. The conclusion was reached that it was due to mold which had badly damaged the small crop of corn grown that year because of dry weather. There has also seemed to be a continual loss of horses from staggers in all localities in which much corn of an inferior grade is fed.

In investigations made during the outbreak in 1906 Haslam found that in some localities cases which were reported as staggers were in reality typical cases of parasitism produced in horses by the palisade worm in the intestines and blood vessels, the error arising from the similarity of some of the symptoms of the two diseases. Those familiar with the course of either disease rarely make this mistake. It is stated that there are few authentic records of cases occurring in Kansas with horses which had not been fed on corn, although in other states severe losses of horses have occurred when the grass in the pastures became moldy.

From a practical point of view the relation between moldy, wormy or decomposing corn or other food and staggers has been quite thoroughly demonstrated.

THE SELECTION OF A DAIRY SIRE.

For some unknown reason it seems almost impossible to induce dairymen to study the methods calculated to produce the best results in breeding. Writes L. J. Meredith in Iowa Homestead. They cannot understand the great value that is wrapped up in a good dairy sire. By breeding out all unprofitable cows with the scales and Babcock test and raising the best developed heifer calves from the best producing cows we have a reasonable assurance of success in building up a herd of economical producing cows. With an inferior, chance bred mongrel bull at the head of our herds we are certain of failure. By all means we should select a good individual of well ascertained purity of breeding and a true type of the breed that he represents.

Before we start out in search of a suitable sire we should make a close examination of the best cows in our herds, noting their weak and good points, but more especially the weak ones, and resolve in our mind's eye to select the kind of bull that is needed to correct these weak points and strengthen the good ones. When we are equipped in our mind's eye with an idea of what we want we may make a visit to some of the best breeders of the breed we want and keep going until we find what we need. Above all, we must not get "stuck" on some fine looking bull calf and make a compromise.

Persistence is sure to bring its reward. We will not only be able to see the bulls, but the sires and dams which

Seven years ago but two Holstein cows had records above twenty-four pounds of fat in seven days. Since then 189 cows have either reached or exceeded that high mark, and twelve of the number have records in excess of twenty-eight pounds. Similarly the yearly test work has been developed, 62 cows having qualified with highly satisfactory full lactation period records. Official testing has, in fact, been carried on by seven states, the District of Columbia and four Canadian provinces. The Holstein cow shown herewith was a prize winner last year and is an excellent example of the breed.

they descended from. Never be tempted by a likely crossbred bull calf from your own pure bred sire and one of your grade dams. To use him would mean plainly retrogression and ruin, for here the principle of atavism and close inbreeding would get in its work and the size and form as well as the inherited good qualities from the pure bred sire would be lost.

Whenever the time comes when you can no longer use the pure bred sire to advantage in your herd start out in search of another, and before leaving home make another close examination of your best cows and find out what variations have taken place and what type of a bull is needed to carry out your ideas of further improvement. Choose one of the same breed as the discarded bull and preferably one bred along the same lines. By strictly adhering to this rule you will gradually be able to grade up your herd and not crossbreed, as is practiced by a large number of dairymen.

Upgrading is gradually bringing the herd up to the standard of pure bred cattle while crossbreeding as commonly practiced means nothing more than leaving some established road and driving off into the wilderness. Grade cows will long continue to be at the head of the list as dairy producers. Thus there must be a rigid weeding out of inferior cows, and great care must be exercised in the selection of breeding bulls to use with the grade cows.

Hogs Need Abundant Water. In most places water doesn't cost anything. It is just as important in making a fat hog, however, as corn or alfalfa. Its cheapness has led us many times to overlook its value. The hog is a big thick bunch of fat and lean. He gets hot easily. He needs water to keep his body cool, to keep his blood thin, to aid in digesting his food and to prevent constipation.

If corn came down from the sky and we had to grow water our way of looking at the two would be reversed. If we can let our imaginations carry us that far, we will realize more fully the value of water.

A good supply of pure water is a splendid disease preventive. If the hogs are required to quench their thirst insufficiently in a muddy hole their chance of escaping disease is on the face of it not as good as though they had free access to a liberal, unpolluted supply of fresh water. Especially during the hot summer months give the hogs all the fresh, pure water they want, because it is healthful, economical and necessary.

The South Dakota Agricultural college at Brookings has a Holstein cow that recently completed a thirty day milk and butter test in which she produced 3,338 pounds of milk testing 9.24 and yielding 116 pounds of butter fat, the equivalent of 143 pounds of butter. This record has been surpassed by but one cow in the world, Lady Kornykite 92700, that produced 125 pounds of butter fat in the same period.

WEST PARIS.

Easter Services. Easter was appropriately observed by the several churches in the village. At the Universalist church there was an appropriate service with the usual music by the choir; also exercises by the children in the Sunday school. At Easter service was held in the evening by the Y. P. C. U.

At the Methodist Church Rev. B. C. Young gave an interesting Easter sermon. At the Baptist church an Easter sermon and music was given. The pulpit was decorated with a flowering pot plant and bouquet of pussy willows. The Sunday School has been very interesting since the new year came in by taking up the creation lessons in a special and more definite manner than ever before. Rev. L. W. Raymond has given a short talk and explanation each Sunday and has recently begun with a three colored chart with which it more easily fixes time and historical events in the scholar's mind. The Pious had a meeting and communion services at the Baptist church in the afternoon. Their church has not yet been sufficiently furnished and dedicated so they cannot use it for a large service. Rev. Charles Jolin has been holding two services each month near South Paris and at different places. He recently made a trip to New York.

Greenleaf Emery. Greenleaf Emery passed away at his home on Stearns Hill, Tuesday morning, March 26, at 10 o'clock, after a long illness. He was 51 years old and had been working more rapidly. The last few weeks he had suffered more or less with it and had decided to go to the hospital. He was taken to the hospital on Monday but was not as well and that night grew worse until the end.

He was born in Gorham, and was about 79 years old and remarkably smart and well preserved except for the above mentioned ailment. He was married about the house until the last day. The end was very sudden.

Mr. Emery leaves a wife, six sons and two daughters, Walter and Warren, who live in Bethel, Will and Laforest of West Paris and the twins, Allie and Ami, who live on the home farm on Stearns Hill, and two daughters, Bertha, wife of Julian Stowe of Farmington and Mrs. Mertie Stowe of Wilton; there are also twenty grandchildren.

South Paris Grange is coming here this week, Friday evening with a laughable farce, "Popping by Proxy." They have recently played it at South Paris and Paris Hill and it comes well recommended. West Paris Grange will furnish the musical part of the program.

Next Sunday evening the W. C. T. U. will present the temperance service, "The Saving of Daddy" at the M. E. church. It will be a union service. The reading will be given by Mrs. Georgia Estes and the music, choruses and solos by the choir.

The day which was very interesting service and all are cordially invited.

The early morning train came down about 9 o'clock and some were able to take that train, the rest had to come by team or remain at home. The forenoon train was consequently crowded.

Dinner was served in the dining room after which Franklin Grange worked the first and second degree on one candidate then West Paris Grange gave an interesting program consisting of music by the Grange choir, two plays by the Grange, a quartette selection, "Moonlight and Stars Again," and a piano solo by Mrs. Grover.

A reading was given by Mrs. D. A. Ball and a question: Would intervention in Mexico by the United States be justifiable? The question was ably discussed by G. W. Q. Perham, Hanco Cushman, R. L. Cummings, F. L. Wyman and others.

NORTH WATERFORD.

George Hobson, the oldest citizen in North Waterford, passed away March 19, at the age of 96 years, 4 months and 23 days. He had been in his usual health all winter and was confined to his bed only a week and one day. He said he had lived long enough and wanted to die and had made arrangements for his funeral. He didn't want the house but wished to be carried to the yard with his horse (Jim) which he had owned for a number of years. This was done and other requests carried out.

This winter he has sowed wood, watered the cattle and done other chores. Three weeks ago he walked a distance of nearly a mile to visit his grandson's family.

He married Elizabeth M. Stevens of Bangor and the ceremony was performed at the home of the bride. They were born, five of whom survive him, Nell Hobson of Massachusetts, Mrs. Jess Hugely of Pennsylvania, Mrs. Mary Gammon and Mrs. Kate Richardson of Norway, and Geo. Hobson of Waterford, with whom he lives. He has four grandchildren and ten great grandchildren.

His wife died 20 years ago the 24th of this month. Since his son's marriage they have lived at the old home where Mr. Hobson came to live 51 years ago and they had kept his old home, and he was very tenderly cared for by his son's wife whom he thought a great deal of, and not long ago he told a neighbor how good she was but he pitted her to have such an old man to care for.

When he was 90 he walked nearly a mile for seven weeks and worked every day on his grandson's house. He took down two chimneys and cleaned the brick, shingled with others keeping his house with the rest, and his head showed over the ridgepole as soon as the younger ones.

The summer he was 91 he picked over a hundred quarts of blueberries. Three years ago he lathered and worked on another grandchild's house and also helped finish a room and put up a chimney at his home. He was always a very active man and worked harder than many of the younger ones.

He has walked to the village a great many times taking his head and neck which he seemed proud of.

The funeral was held at 1:30 Saturday, at his home, Rev. B. W. Hague officiating. The floral offering were beautiful. The following is a list:

Mrs. J. C. Richardson was presented by the New Jersey society of Norway with a bunch of calla lilies for her father.

SOUTH ALBANY.

100 Friends. A reception was given to Chesley H. Fernald, Tuesday evening, March 18, at Albany town house, by the people of the town. About 100 friends of Mr. Fernald gathered to celebrate with him the day that began the 80th year of Mr. Fernald's life, and to extend their congratulations to him.

Mr. Fernald was born at Lincoln, and came to Albany with his parents when he was seven years old, and has always resided here since that time. He has always been a farmer but for many years he was engaged in mill and lumber business and in company with Clark White, a former resident of the town, owned and operated a steam mill that was situated several rods south of the house where Mr. Fernald lived. This mill was afterward moved to the river, which runs directly in front of the house, and the water was used as the motive power. A few years ago he sold the mill and has retired from active business aside from the farm.

Mr. Fernald has been a member of Oxford Lodge, I. O. F., for about 55 years, and has always been a constant attendant at the meetings of that lodge, and has ridden many hundred miles for that purpose as his home was several miles from the lodge room. "Uncle Chesley," as he is familiarly called, in his life of four score years, has always held the respect and esteem of everyone with whom he associated, and the large number of people who gathered here is witness to his popularity.

Several members of the Wild Cat orchestra furnished music for the dance. There were 32 couples on the floor, and Mr. Fernald led with his wife, his great-granddaughter, Mildred Rugg.

At intermission delicious ice cream and cake were served by the ladies. James Kimball was requested to address the people to which he responded by some fitting words in his usual pleasant way. Mr. Kimball read an original poem written for the occasion by Mrs. Lydia F. Lord. It was a very pleasant affair, and all joined in hoping Mr. Fernald might be able to enjoy many more happy birthdays.

Mrs. J. W. Dresser recently visited Mrs. Hiram Holt.

Mrs. Lydia Lord recently spent some days with her daughter, Mrs. Ernest Browns.

Marjorie Mathieson and Edith Waterhouse of North Waterford were at Geo. Abbott's, Sunday.

Roy Wardwell, assisted by Cecil Kimball, has been sawing wood in this place with his new engine.

Mrs. Roy Lord and children recently visited among friends and relatives at Bridgton, a few days.

Merritt Sawin attended the district meeting of the I. O. F., at Harrison, Wednesday, March 19th.

Roy Lord and Verne Jenkins are at work for Charles Becker in his mill at Albany, near the town house.

Harry Brown's team and men from North Waterford have been hauling the timber which Leon Bisbee cut on the land belonging to Mrs. L. F. Lord, to Mr. Brown's mill at North Waterford.

The One Universal Language.

I sometimes think that the greatest educational force in the world today is the film camera. The picture speaks a universal language that tells more at a single glance than the swiftest stenographer could put on paper in hours. The "picture writing" of primitive tribes is the oldest known means of recording facts. It survives in the Chinese alphabet, every character in which represents a distinct idea, a conventionalized picture—the character meaning "danger," for example, representing a girl standing on the edge of a cliff. But while few foreigners can master the intricate symbols of Chinese writing, any Chinaman intelligent enough to depress the button" can write with his camera a story that everyone in the world can read.

And the untold millions of photographs, made literally from pole to pole, have done more, I believe, to educate the people of the present generation and broaden their mental horizons than any other one modern device.

Few people can write a description of a ship, a machine, a natural phenomenon or a strange custom so graphically, completely and yet concisely that everyone who reads will see the thing described as the author saw it. Still fewer can draw a picture that will come anywhere near conveying a correct impression.

But the hundreds of paid and volunteer correspondents of Topical Magazine, in every part of the world, send us descriptions that need no translations, drawings that are as accurate as the processes of nature—news written with the camera in the only universal language. Helpful Suggestions.

When altering a waist it is a mistake to move the shoulder seam to the front. A better plan is to let it drop backward instead of forward.

In sewing a bias edge to a straight edge the former is apt to become stretched unless carefully treated. To avoid this the bias edge should be placed underneath, and it will then be sewed in evenly.

An overwide armhole should always be avoided. Don't, in order to avoid a tight blouse, cut a large armhole so as to give more play to the arm. A far better plan is to ease the side seam. A wide armhole causes the blouse to be pulled out of place at the waist when the arm is lifted.

For Spring Humors

And tired feelings I heartily recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I have used in my family for years and think a very fine medicine. I had salt rheum badly on my face, and humors that seemed to come from or be developed by vaccination. I knew my blood must be in very poor condition. Hood's Sarsaparilla was recommended and I took a few bottles. The humor entirely disappeared, and I have had no trouble from it since. I cordially recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to my friends and neighbors and to the general public." Mrs. Bertram Gray, 499 Union Street, New Bedford, Mass. Get a bottle of

KEZAR FALLS.

Mrs. G. W. Towle.

Susanna, wife of G. W. Towle, passed away on the evening of March 20th, after an illness of ten days. She was married to Mr. Towle almost sixty years.

Several children came to their home only one living to the age of seven. All through the years the memory of that little child dwelt in her heart and for his sake many other little ones received kindnesses at her hands.

She was a lover of the beautiful in art and nature; flowers tended by her, blossomed in the home windows; pictures she had painted adorned the walls, and other beautiful and artistic things, fashioned at the point of a needle made the home a place of satisfying comfort.

Funeral services were held at her home at Kezar Falls on the afternoon of Easter, conducted by Rev. Mr. Hoyt, Universalist minister from Brownfield, whose comforting words will long be remembered. There were many beautiful flowers, conspicuous among them being yellow tulips, with white words, "Dear Wife." Three beautiful selections were sung by a quartette. The bearers were friends of the family, James Chapman, Ed. Bachelder, David Ridlon and Charles Pugsley. The interment was in Cornish cemetery.

Dr. and Mrs. F. G. Lawrence, who have been spending the winter in Philadelphia, are expected home next week.

Mrs. Fred Chick of Cornish, Mrs. Daniel Stewart and Mrs. Wallace of Massachusetts, were with their aunt, Mrs. G. W. Towle, during the last hours of her life. Mr. Wallace and Mr. Stewart who came later to attend the funeral, returned home, Monday.

KEZAR RIVER.

Deep in the dimpled hills of Maine A little white cottage is beaming Up the plain, where the silver main Of a beautiful river lies gleaming.

O! wonderful evergreen Lovell plains, The home of fair Kezar river, Like a liquid song it runs along, Blessing the glorious giver.

Out from the tranquil Kezar lake A little stream comes trotting, Now in, now out, and roundabout, Where the alders form a meeting.

Now under the Kezar mountain fair, With waters swiftly flashing, Like a silver snail on its snail bar, The noisy brook goes pushing.

Below the majestic Kezar falls, With its waters swiftly dropping, Like drifting snow to the rocks below, Where ledges sharp are cropping.

Out from the circular granite walls The furious river comes rushing, Its frothing tongue like diamonds hung With the sunlight on its blushing.

Crashing down to its roaring, The mighty stream goes whirling, All feathery white in the bright sunlight Is the foam on its water curling.

Leaping over its rocky barriers, Through its rough hewn granite trough, Like a foaming sea over the sloping mead With the sand bars waxing wroth.

Twisting along through a meadow fair, On the river wider grows, The tall cane brakes a shadow makes Where the river's swiftly flowing.

And on the river wider grows, Its waters clear and shallow, Singing a song, winding along, Out into a smiling meadow.

The sweeping willows on the bank Bend over its smiling water, And pussy willows over the willows With the smiling cowslips totter.

And now we see the blackened stretch Changing its beauty vastly, Not a green tree, or fern, or weed, Only branches bare and ghastly.

Speeding along its changing path, Around a bend it's running, Throwing its spray over the way, Where the windpipes are sunning.

Up wind hills tortuous sandy way The wains are slowly winding, Beside the way, a parting gray Is the foam on its water curling.

Below the hill a dashing brook, Runs out to meet the river; For its noisy way the meadows lay Watching the sunbeams quiver.

Chattering on its flings itself, On the river wider grows, Like a tired child from a frolic wild It finds a welcome rest.

Now on again to the gleaming plain The river westward presses, Where silvery foam and black spots roam Over the sunbeams and crosses.

O beautiful changing Kezar river, You're a mission to fulfill, With music sweet to the complete And he bids these "passe be still."

When the sunset kisses the dimpled hills With a warm and soft good night, Falls stage line, o'er the silver him, As they homeward take their flight.

Now beautiful stately old Kezarage Is towering where brooklets are, O'er hill and plain to join the train Of the river in the valley.

The sun is setting behind the hill But its glimmering lights remain, As we travel back o'er the shining track To our home in the hills again.

Life is like the river winding Through the distant vales and hills Eye onward o'er the greenward, Seeking a haven like the hills.

Baby.

Wee atom of a vast stupendous whole What was it that decided you to come, Thon spark of life from the great Over Soul, And make our humble dwelling place your home.

Within thy dark, inscrutable, calm eyes, Unspoken memories of heaven we trace, A tender wisdom nothing can surprise, Creation's mysteries still haunt thy face.

Dear baby, we must teach you to forget The joys you left behind in Paradise; And may there be no shadow of regret, Grief is as you are growing worldly-wise.

What can we give thee, baby, in exchange For all the joys and blessings you forsook To journey to a world so cold and strange, And meekly nestle down into a nook.

Within our poor, frail, oftentimes cold hearts, You tiny wanderer from Paradise? You have our best, our all, a love that starts And thrills beneath the calm glance of your eyes.

A love that nevermore may die or sleep, Tho' you should leave us ere the day be done, Which God forbid! I pray He less us keep, And love, and cherish thee, our Precious One!

Tobacco, Like Food, Must Be Fresh To Be Good

And tobacco cannot keep fresh after it is cut up, any better than bread or meat can. To get fresh tobacco, you must cut it off the plug yourself, just before it goes into your pipe. That's the way you use Sickle tobacco—that's the reason it burns slowly, and always affords you a cool, sweet, satisfying smoke.

Tobacco that comes already cut-up, in packages, gets dry and stale—burns fast and hot, and bites your tongue. The original flavor and moisture cannot escape from the Sickle plug—they are pressed in and kept in by the natural leaf wrapper.

More tobacco—fresh tobacco—no package to pay for—no waste—that's Sickle tobacco. Get a plug at your dealer's today.

Saco's City Physician.

Dr. Laura (Black) Stickney was elected city physician of Saco by the city council, Monday, and began her duties immediately.

Dr. Stickney is one of the first women in Maine to be elected to such an office. She was a candidate for the place seven years ago, but was defeated by a few votes. At that time some of the older men thought a woman could not perform the duties of the office.

This spring she became a candidate and was unanimously elected. She is well fitted for the place and it is believed will make one of the best physicians the city ever had.

She is a Maine born girl. She first saw the light of day at Kezar Falls. She graduated from Brewster academy and from a medical college in Boston. She went to Saco seven years ago and has been practicing medicine ever since.

Peculiar After Effects of Grip This Year.

Leaves Kidneys in Weakened Condition

Doctors in all parts of the country have been kept busy with the epidemic of grip which has visited so many homes. The symptoms of grip this year are very distressing and leave the system in a run down condition, particularly the kidneys which seem to suffer most, as every victim complains of lame back and urinary troubles, which should not be neglected, as these danger signals often lead to more serious sickness, such as dreaded Bright's Disease. Local druggists report a large sale on Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, which so many people say soon heals and strengthens the kidneys after an attack of grip. Swamp-Root is a great kidney, liver and bladder remedy and being an herbal compound, has a gentle healing effect on the kidneys, which is almost immediately noticed by those who try it. Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., offer to send a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, free by mail, to every sufferer who requests it. A trial bottle will convince any one who may be in need of it. Regular size bottles, 50c and $1.00. For sale at all druggists. Be sure to mention this paper.
